

The strategic objectives of each alliance: creating a market in the petrochemical sector, importing technology for efficient refining operations, and concerns about sharing risks related to oil price volatility.