

False. Justification: While the societal environment (e.g., social, cultural, and demographic trends) can significantly influence corporate strategies, it does not always have a direct impact.