

Body image appreciation was high among our sample of females attending gyms in Tulkarm and Jenin. Body image classification was significantly associated to weight management, physical fitness, use of slimming creams, and factors like and dietary changes. Programs should boost self-esteem, defiance media pressures, and support diverse body types to enhance gym-goers quality of life.