

The most successful companies had what the researchers called 'the big idea'.