

The computer or device that receives the message, which can be different from the sender.