

Time is the most valuable thing on this earth; nothing can be compared with it. Once it goes, never be back. They enjoy their time by only eating, playing or other lazy activities with their friends. Indirectly they have lost their lots of cash and most importantly the time which they never get back. It always runs only in forward direction and not in backward direction. Everything requires some time to get done. Loss of time is considered as the worst thing on this earth because wasting time, wastes us and our future. We never acquire lost time again. Most of the people value their money more than the time however it is true that nothing is as valuable as time. Everything in this world depends on time, nothing happens before time.
