

Preparation: Salespeople must conduct thorough research on potential customers' needs, preferences, and business information to customize their sales approach to better meet their requirements.