

?Clinical Significance: ?o The report explores pragmatic consequences like better neonatal PICC catheterization skills resulting in less stress within clinical settings due to high student satisfaction rates and interest levels.o This discussion has consistency with some previous research such as Badowski et al. (2021) which confirms that virtual simulation makes pediatric nursing interesting to students.o Discussion is based on grounded theories acknowledging need for technical support and teacher training which corresponds with low scores in these areas observed from findings among others.In terms of Previous Research and Conceptual Framework: ?1.??2.??3.??4.?