

Social Analysis Social and cultural factors have also been found to contribute optimistically because the total consumption of water bottles in the UAE is approximately equal to 800 million bottles per year. This high consumption actually reflects the continuously increasing population. Besides this, people due to progressive opportunities have been moving to cities, and some areas have been almost undeveloped where people are not even to meet the most basic need of water.