

The rocky surface of Mars shows evidence of its past. Huge volcanic landforms, including the biggest volcano in our solar system, have been built up from past eruptions that flow out of the volcanic vents.