

Nanotechnology also has the potential to revolutionize the realm of electronics, providing faster and more portable systems that can manage and store larger amounts of data. Nanotechnology is a rapidly expanding field that is mutually laying claim to some of the most exciting scientific leaps of the last decade.