

The ability to systematically plan for the future and reason about hypothetical situations are also critical abilities that emerge during this stage.