

Trace elements :The concentration of bromide ions is important in some cases, possibly due to the proliferation of bromide in halogenated marine antibiotics.C. The pH level of the growth medium has a noticeable effect on the production of the secondary metabolite.It is widely known that oxygen is crucial for optimal growth in air fermentation.??