

As the Head of Learning and Development (LNTD) at Samsung, I have noticed that the company uses multiple recruitment methods to retain and support employees through effective training and development initiatives. By aligning our training activities with strategic goals, we aim to create customized programs that meet the evolving needs of our teams, thereby fostering a culture of learning and continuous improvement at Samsung.