

HACCP is the Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point system, a system responsible for food production operations and hazard identification during food production science, through continuous monitoring of the production process , Control of all production steps, and strict regulations to prevent any problems or hazards.