

It can also lead to a weak personality due to the lack of communication and natural interaction with different aspects of life. Let's not forget that obesity is one of the most prominent things caused by these techniques, as sitting for long periods and not moving often leads to weight gain. It can also cause anxiety, lethargy and depression. It can also cause sleep disorders for people who spend a lot of time on it day and night.