

The training metrics show that the Faster R-CNN model effectively learned to detect brain tumors. Overall, the model was well-tuned, achieving high precision with minimal overfitting or instability.