

however some consumers; both in the developed and the developing countries; are relatively unconcerned about counterfeiting.