

A fish farm is an artificial environment in which fish, as well as aquatic plants, are raised commercially for food.