

The land determines the building materials and designs in Europe and North America. Traditional houses in southern Greece are always white. Trees are textiles Mangoes are nomads and need portable homes, but Jill also needs to protect them from the harsh winter weather. There are few trees.