

Cars are very important means of transport in our time, and divide into several sections, there are small private cars owned by people to go to work or move with the family, there are large buses used to transport passengers and trucks used to transport goods.