

In the shadows of bustling cities, a silent crisis unfolds – the plight of homeless children. It requires a collective commitment to tackle the root causes of poverty, inequality, and housing instability. It demands empathy, compassion, and action from policymakers, communities, and individuals alike.