

In Jeddah, a girl named Sarah lived in a small, neighborhood in Jeddah , enjoyed shopping online for clothes, household items and other supplies. She received an incorrect order from an online store and contacted them to obtain a refund and correct the shipment. The next day, Sarah visited the post office to return the incorrect items and met another girl named Hind, who was also sending a package. They discovered their similarities, as they are both from Jeddah and enjoy online shopping and fashion. They started communicating through phone calls and letters, and became close friends, spending a lot of time together.
