

This project involves creating a simple calculator in which the user selects a mathematical operation from a menu (addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, or modulus).