Once, there was a lazy son. He remembered his father's talk about a hidden treasure in the field but couldn't recall its location. The son dug for days but found nothing.A passerby suggested planting seeds. The son followed the advice and soon had a bountiful harvest. He sold the crops and became rich.The son realized his father's trick: the true treasure was hard work.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com