

Supporting Services: These are foundational processes that enable all other ecosystem services. They enhance human experience through recreational activities, aesthetic enjoyment, and connections to the natural environment, offering social and emotional value. Regulating Services: These services help regulate natural processes and include benefits like pollination, water purification, erosion control, climate regulation, and natural disaster protection.