

The reaction may be incomplete in qualitative analysis while in quantitative analysis the reaction should be completely and give clear and known products