

Summer!Unexpectedly, when we first arrived there, the weather began to change into foggy and rainy weather.I thought I should go in stores and look at items there to waste time.That couldn't help it. I was running so low on patience.I went to a point where I couldn't handle it and was about to storm out of the store that I was in, to the car.Coincidentally, the rain had finally stopped.My family and I rushed back into the beach as fast as we were able to. We were able to have fun and complete the rest of the day at the beach.Patience is needed throughout our lives.Summer!Summer!How nice does it feel sitting on the beach as the wind hits you across your face?I recall a time this summer when I went to spend a day at the Beach ,.Something amazing just happened.