

An indirect object tells us to or for whom the action is done. There must be a direct object for there to be an indirect object