

English .an applied :linguist and consultant, observes Conventional wisdom has it that native speakers must be best at communicating in English.has frequently been compared to Latin, which flourished for centuries as an international language, even after the collapse of the Roman Empire, becoming a shared resource for much of the globe..