

This project uses MATLAB to model and simulate a DC motor, crucial for industrial applications. The objectives are threefold: developing a DC motor's mathematical model, simulating its response within MATLAB, and designing/tuning a controller to enhance its performance. Accurate modeling and parameter tuning are highlighted as essential for achieving desired motor performance.