

Distance learning is the process of separating the learner, teacher, and writers in the educational environment, and transferring the traditional environment of education from a university or school and others to a multiple and geographically separate environment, which is a modern phenomenon of education that has developed with the rapid technological development in the world, and its goal is to give the opportunity of education and provide it to students who cannot Obtaining it in traditional conditions and almost daily.