

1.As computer technology has improved, today's online environments have become more complex and realistic.One website that has attracted over six million Internet users is Second Life.