

B. Binding of two ACh molecules elicits a conformational change that allows the entry of sodium ions, resulting in the depolarization of the effector cell. The nicotinic receptor is composed of five subunits, and it functions as a ligand-gated ion channel (ionotropic receptor).