

While some may argue that other areas like education or healthcare need more funding, sports facilities are equally important.