

the gene for earlobe type will be located at the same position on both homologous chromosomes. Although these genes each code for earlobe type, they might not code for the exact same type of earlobe.