

Active Transport Active process has two types i-Active transport ii-Group translocation –The cell uses energy in the form of adenosine triphosphate (ATP) to move substance across the plasma membrane.– Active transport transfer:– Polar ions or substances – Against a concentration gradient – Larger molecules