This unit is responsible for controlling and managing the various components of the computer (controlling exchanges, managing the sequence of different instructions, etc o It coordinates the operation of other elements to execute the sequence of instructions constituting the program

Summarized by © lakhasly.com