

Forms of globalization: Globalization has many forms. Fifth, there is environmental globalization. For example, Apple makes iPhones in many countries and sells them worldwide. Big companies like Amazon and Walmart operate in different countries. For example, people in Kuwait eat pizza from Italy and sushi from Japan. For example, apps like WhatsApp and Zoom help people talk and work together from different places. For example, the United Nations helps countries discuss peace and climate change. Countries share one planet, so they work together to protect it. For example, countries signed the Paris Agreement to fight global warming. First, there is economic globalization. This connects economies. Second, there is cultural globalization. Third, there is technological globalization. Technology connects people worldwide. Governments also make trade deals like the World Trade Organization (WTO). Lastly, there is social globalization.