

Globalization has many challenges. Countries must follow shared rules, but some may not want to. These challenges make globalization hard to manage, but teamwork can help solve these problems. Some countries cannot compete with big economies. Mixing cultures can make some traditions disappear. First, not all countries benefit equally.