

?Providing job opportunities for researchers: One of the advantages of small projects is to reduce the level of unemployment in Oman. Small projects constitute an essential and important focus of economic policy in Oman, as Oman aims to reduce the unemployment rate and employ job seekers, as it can be a source of renewal, innovation and the creation of new administrative cadres. Some economic studies in Oman recently confirmed and indicated that small projects can absorb and employ a greater number of job seekers compared to large projects, and with this solution the unemployment rate in Oman will be reduced and the largest number of job seekers will be employed. Small projects are among the economic sectors that receive great attention in all countries of the world, due to the role they play in producing and employing job seekers, in addition to their role in achieving the economic and social renaissance that Oman seeks. The high level of unemployment is due to the lack of job opportunities in Oman, which threatens instability and other countries.?????