

Ground granulated blast furnace slag (GGBS). Two products: molten iron molten slag there are produced when iron-ore, coke and limestone melt in the blast furnace, and the molten slag is lighter and floats on the top of the molten iron. The process of granulating the slag involves cooling of molten slag through high-pressure water jets.