

(Himmelfarb 162). History, in this sense, functions as a guide to the new historicist, a lantern that illuminates and helps him read what lies behind the lines. New historicists are in search of a bridge to link the past with the present through literature.