Another possible explanation for the non-significant findings in the right eye measurements may be related to ocular dominance.However, further investigation would be required to confirm the influence of ocular dominance on the present findings.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com