

A famous philosopher and writer, known for his influential works on political philosophy and education, especially during the Enlightenment.