

There is no lake at Camp Green Lake. The town shriveled and dried up along with the lake, and the people who lived there. During the summer the daytime temperature hovers around ninety– five degrees in the shade— if you can find any shade. There once was a very large lake here, the largest lake in Texas. Now it is just a dry, flat wasteland. That was over a hundred years ago. There used to be a town of Green Lake as well. There's not much shade in a big dry lake.
