B. This act of scientific recklessness immortalized him and illustrates the high mor– tality associated with this disease if untreated, so it is recom– mended that B. bacilliformis infections should be treated with chloramphenical or ciprofloxacin. The link between verruga peruana skin lesions and Oroya fever was demonstrated by a medical student, Carrion, who infected himself with aspirates from the skin lesions and died of Oroya fever.