

Mala removes two pieces of paper from her desk. One piece is to help her understand the nature of the problem she is tackling and the other is to explore potential solutions.