

The company considers that public relations plays a vital role in enhancing trust between the company and the public, and contributes to building strong relationships with the media and society, which enhances positive interaction and contributes to achieving the company's goals more effectively.