

Migration in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) is a significant aspect of the country's demographic landscape. The UAE's migration landscape continues to evolve, and policies and regulations are in place to manage migration flows and ensure the well-being of migrants in the country.#### Emigration and Skilled Migration – In 2019, there were 154,500 migrants from the UAE living in different parts of the world, including countries such as Kuwait, Canada, Oman, the USA, and India. It's important to note that migration is a complex and dynamic phenomenon, influenced by various factors such as economic opportunities, political stability, and social factors. – The UAE has been proactive in addressing migration and human rights issues, but it still faces challenges in balancing labor market needs with native-born employment and other concerns. In 2023, the net migration rate is projected to be 0.433 per 1,000 population, representing a decline from previous years.
